Asia plays a vital role in the world economy. As for my country, Thailand which is part of ASEAN countries plays many vital roles. Thailand is of the most famous ASEAN countries for having abundant natural resources as well as a booming tourism. If we talk about Thailand environment, in my point of view, my country has a green and fresh atmosphere. In the northern part, on the other hand it consists of many mountains producing fruits and crops that grows in cold weather such as strawberries, peaches, coffee beans, and teas. This helps us to import less from foreign countries. Next in the southern part we have seas which provides occupation for fishermen to catch different kind of seafoods. That's why seafoods are very cheap, fresh and available in any seasons. Furthermore, in the northeastern of Thailand, I do believe that everyone knows that it's drought but Thailand is very lucky that we are blessed with a kind and smart King after knowing this problem, he figured a way out. He studied and created ways to make more rain by using scientific ideas, which Thai people call it as "royal rain" . We are very grateful for what the King has done to his people. From then on, Thai people are inspired to live according to what the King focused on which is Sufficiency Economy. In another way, Thailand has been developed both in technologies and industries, for example many Adidas products, sold in California but made in Thailand. This is a good manifestation that Thailand industries are as good as other countries. Not only this, once you visited my country you can see a lot of developments. Namely mode of transportations, sky scappers, big shopping malls and restaurants that serve varieties of local and international food.

Thailand is also a part of ASEAN. It proves that Thailand has the ability to work with other countries. ASEAN is starting AFTA which is ASEAN free trade area. This will help ASEAN members in their economy including Thailand. We can import products from other ASEAN members in a cheaper price and can also export many products than before. In conclusion, the growing of industries in Thailand, may affect the environment such as water pollution, air pollution, however, my country is doing its best to control factories not to pollute the environment but find ways to save such as planting trees and cleaning rivers which everyone in Thailand is involved in conserving the environment.

Not just that, Thailand is also known in tourism, many tourists from all over the world want to travel to Thailand to visit the spectacular places in many parts of Thailand and they also want to learn the beautiful cultures and traditions of it. This helps Thailand's tourism on top to be visited by the foreigners. Example of places in Thailand that has many foreigners every year is Bangkok. Bangkok is a wonderful place filled with foreigner's happiness. It offers plenty of activities such as sightseeing amazing temples, the Grand Palace, shopping, and etc.

In the future, I believe that Thailand will be more develop than at present because we always keep developing for a better economy of our country. Thailand might not be civilized in other countries mind but I'm sure that my country is important to the world economy even just a little part and I believe that Thailand will always be developed for its best.

Nowadays, Asia is a continent which is well known because of our export products and also we have many high technologies, too. The western civilized countries always think that they're one step ahead of us but for me I think it's the other way around. Asia plays a vital role in the world economy. At present, the quality of our products are as good as the other continents.

If we talk about technologies, we are no less than the other because we have Japan, a well known country in Asia which has high technologies and innovations. Example of Japanese products that I like is their restroom. It's an amazing technology which makes life easier and more comfortable even it's just a one creative technology but it's unique and it can be used in our daily life. Another example is a hybrid car. This technology really proves that Asia has the ability to create new innovations which has more benefits because it uses less oil or gas that help our environment and also the engine has less sound.

Not just technologies but Asia is a continent filled with natural resources such as the southeastern part of Asia has fruits, grains, rice and even fish. In the middle part of Asia has natural gas and petroleum. All of these things are export all around the world. These examples show that Asia is one important continent in the world and plays a vital role in the economic globalization. We might not be the best but we also won't stop developing because every step we make is progress.
