My country is Thailand, Thailand is a country in the south-east Asia, which this region is considered as a place that is rich with natural resources. Also, Thailand is a great tourist attraction, consists of various tourism. Thailand, now, is a part of ASEAN which is an association of the south-east Asia countries for the purposes on economic development and cultural association. It can infer that Thailand is facing a change and Thailand will have more roles in Asia and in the world.

Thailand is a country with great quantity of natural resources and has a big market. What is the problem for Thailand is that Thailand still lacks of education quality and using of technology. But now, Thailand is facing a change, as ASEAN has just been officially formed and the world is continuing to develop, Thailand will get some development from this situation. In the future, ASEAN will have a role in Asia as the natural resource of Asia and Thailand has fundamental exported products as agricultural products, because Thailand is located in a tropical region. Thailand can produce high yield of agricultural products and that will decrease the prices of the products. Therefore, other countries will tend to buy the product from Thailand. What is needed to be increased for Thailand to develop the size of the market, are research and technology. For this, Thailand and the other ASEAN countries have connections with some developed countries including Korea, Japan, and China. These country can support technology for Thailand. When the richness of natural resources combines with technology, Thailand can become an important country in Asia economic.

Thailand is also one of the greatest tourist attractions of Asia, from the latest index, Thailand was considered as the second rank of Asian tourist attractions, following China. What does this information tell us is that people from every countries in the world are interested in Thailand and Thailand has an opportunity to use this situation to develop the country into a higher level. From the world interest, Thailand can be the center or leader of something in Asia. For example, China is the center of Asian economic, Japan is the leader of technology etc. In this case, Thailand can be the leader of Agriculture which produces quality products, exporting to other countries. But as I have stated before, it needs researches and technology to get to that level because they will help to increase the quality and develop basic products to new products.

Finally, Thailand will still be a great tourist attraction in Asia because of the culture, places, people and nature. Thailand will be a place with various people from all over Asia and be the center of Asia communication.

In conclusion, Thailand is rich of things but they are not used well, it needs development. But now Thailand is facing a change from the world. With this situation, Thailand can take a chance to develop the country to become a well-known country in Asia with development, big market, great attractions, and will have big roles in Asia community.
